

WHAT DOES LOCAL LOVE LOOK LIKE?

Newcomers arriving in our community walk unfamiliar streets and face potential isolation. That's why we support Cultural Brokers like Yusuf who helps newcomers navigate their new community. And it's all thanks to people like George who shows his local love by giving back to his community.

For families like the McKiels whose boys face unique intellectual challenges, summertime can mean inaccessible childcare and exclusion. United Way wanted to change that. This year, with help from donors like Kerry and Andrew, we supported a summer camp tailored to kids with special needs, giving all kids the opportunity to learn, play, and make new friends.

Thanks to your donation, Liam was able to attend Camp Wonder this summer where he was around other kids just like him.

Grâce à votre don, Liam a pu participer au Camp Wonder cet été où il était entouré d'enfants comme lui.
